PREFACE

Viewing learning as a social and cultural process the learner teachers' developing expertise should not only reside in the knowledge domains typically established by universities and schools. A crucial knowledge domain that is often overlooked by schools and teacher education institutes (TEIs) is the community beyond the walls of the school classroom and college lecture hall. What constitutes an effective teacher in an era of rapid change and the process of becoming a twenty-first century educator through examining an innovative curriculum design which has made experiential learning (EL) mandatory for all novice teachers at a TEI in India. This challenging curriculum initiative in teacher training has enabled a powerful synergy between the core functions of our teacher-training faculty and the wider community.

It has been observed that student teachers after being appointed as teachers find it difficult to adopt themselves in to the real learning situation. It was experienced that they were unable to carry-out innovative practices in their teaching-learning process. This may be due to the lack of community participation on the part of the student-teachers. So that they can make themselves aware of the socio-cultural, educational, economic issues and problem related to the society and can prepare themselves to be effective teacher- practitioner.

Considering the value of relationship between the school and community, Field work with community (FWC) programme is an integral part of four-year B.SC. B.Ed. Curriculum of Regional Institute of Education, Bhubaneswar. The objective is to develop an insight in to the various aspects of community participation in educational programmes and to enhance their ability to enlist community support for school and contribute for nation's development. It aims at enabling the student teachers: (1) to acquaint with the factors working within the society, community i.e. knowledge of social realities; (2) develop the dignity of labor among student-teachers; (3) arouse their interest in the social and economic reconstruction of the country; (4) make the student-teacher aware with the educational problems and needs of the society; (5) prepare preservice teachers for sustainable development and (6) develop the personality of the student-teacher through community service.

INTRODUCTION

Pre-service teacher education programme aims to prepare graduates to become quality teachers equipped with pedagogical practices that will serve to meet the increasing demands associated with the teaching profession. Over the last decade, the focus on developing quality teachers has received increased attention in education. In India, a key objective of the Government has been to raise the quality of teaching in order to increase the effectiveness of schooling and to improve student outcomes. There has been greater interest in using pedagogical teaching practices that enhance intellectual thinking and problem solving as well as foster student belonging and connectedness. There is strong evidence that teachers that take a value-based pedagogical approach, make a positive difference in students' learning and their lives.

Increasingly, schools are taking on the goal of being at the heart of local communities. For some schools, this is as basic as providing after-school enrichment programs or engaging more frequently and effectively with the parents and community members, while for other schools, this means systematic effort at integrated and comprehensive service delivery (referred to as "full-service" or "community-based" schools) that provides health and human services for students, their families and other community members in school-based settings. The line of reasoning and general research finding is that when families, local communities, and services are more intentionally integrated, there is an associated positive impact on student achievement and behavioral and social outcomes. While much of the published research on community-based schools and integrated services has emphasized the role of educational leaders in bringing services to the schools, very little research has examined how practicing and pre-service teachers come to understand and to engage with other professionals and members of the local communities where they work.

COMMUNITY-BASED LEARNING

Community-based learning provides unique opportunities for students to link theory with practice and to situate learning in meaningful contexts. By considering real world issues from multidisciplinary perspectives, preservice professionals learn skills that may encourage inter-professional work with families, community members, and human services professionals (e.g., counselors, law enforcement, child welfare, nonprofit agency representatives) throughout their careers. Community-based learning is grounded in educational and psychological research and is used as pedagogical tool by teachers. It comprises many forms including "field trips, observational projects, service-learning projects and community-based internships". Intelligence and expertise are built out of interaction with environment, not in isolation from it". Additionally, "effective learning engages both head and hand requires both knowing and doing . . . [and] decontextualized learning fails to enable students to examine the ideas they bring to the learning situation, to learn from their errors, or to look for patterns". For the teachers, understanding students' lives outside of school can provide insights about ways to help students connect with the academic material covered in their classrooms. Knowing where students "come from" may also strengthen the bond between teacher and student and thus enhance learning. Relatively few pre-professional programmes provide intentional opportunities for future teachers to situate learning within communities and to learn about the role communities and human services professionals play in the work of teachers and schools.

There is evidence to support the need for teachers to learn how to work effectively within communities. Teacher qualifications and characteristics are no more important than student, family, and community factors in predicting student. It becomes all the more imperative for pre-service teachers to consider the importance of nonacademic barriers to learning and have opportunities to engage with community members and the human services profession during early phases of professional preparation. Inter-professional and community-based learning in pre-service teacher education, knowledge about students' lives, their neighborhoods, and the community-based agencies that connect with schools receives little mention in most teacher preparation programs. Community based activities conjured student feelings of fear, resistance, marginalization, and surprise, as well as a sense of personal and professional transformation, all emotions and processes associated with the complexities of becoming an effective teacher. If institutions of teacher education want preservice teachers to teach all children, they should consider incorporating community-based learning into the formal preparation process. Challenging pre-service teachers to learn about the communities in which they will eventually work is recognized by major teacher education professional standards and the National Council Teacher Education (NCTE). A teacher who demonstrates knowledge of involvement with the wider community "understand schools as organizations within the larger community context and understands the operations of the relevant aspects of the system(s) within which she/he works". Additionally, a teacher who understands how societal systems factors in the students' environment outside of school (e.g., family circumstances, community environments, health and economic conditions) may influence students' life and learning".

NEEDS AND JUSTIFICATION

As seen, exposure to community has the potential to be both generative and transformative. The community-learning is a powerful pedagogical tool which enhances the complex process of teacher preparation while at the same time promoting and raising awareness about local community needs. Responding to these calls for a transformation in the way we prepare teachers for the twenty-first century, a clear shift is emerging. The move away from a rigid focus on new knowledge in teacher education has been reported in different contexts.

The student-teachers, after becoming appointed as teacher, find it difficult to adapt themselves in to the real learning situations. It was experienced that they were unable to carry-out innovative practices in their teaching-learning process. This may be due to the lack of community experiences to student-teachers. So that they can make themselves aware of the socio-cultural, educational, economic issues and problems related to the society and can prepare themselves to be teacher-practitioner.

A. PRABHAT PHERI AND SLOGANS

On the first day of the programme, at 7:00 AM all the trainee teachers along with escort teachers, assembled in the Govt. High School ground. All went around the nearby village with placards and chanted slogans. From next day onwards at 7 AM in the morning, all trainee teachers used to assemble in the school ground in groups. Group leaders lead their respective groups to different specified areas around the village with placards and banners on different themes. All the trainee teachers accompanied by their mentors used to say the slogans in Odia so that local people could easily understand. The students had uniformity in the appearance wearing the House Jerseys provided by the Institute.

The main aim of the activity was to create awareness amongst the villagers about various topics assigned for 8 different days.

Slogans

8 different themes were identified for 8 different days and each group had the responsibility to prepare slogans and banners. The different themes are as follows:

- 1) Swachh Bharat
- 2) Women Empowerment and gender equality
- 3) Drug Abuse
- 4) Health and Hygiene
- 5) Early Marriage and Family Planning

And “Raghu Pati Rahagav Raja Ram” was sung by us.

This activity was a great success. Most of the localities came out of their houses and was very enthusiastic about it making videos and taking photographs. Some of them even joined us.

SWACHATA ABHIYAN

B. SWACHATA ABHIYAN

The trainees were earlier divided in to eight groups. Each group has a group leader. Areas in the village were identified. Each group was allotted a specific site of the village. The trainees were given basket, spade, rake, gloves and mask. Each group was escorted by a faculty to the allotted area. The trainees cleaned the areas. At the same time interacted and discussed with village people about the usefulness of cleanliness. The trainee groups continued this cleaning operation every day at different places of the village from 7 am to 9 am.

The second day onwards, it was observed many young people of the village joined with our trainees in the swatchha bharaat activity. Many elderly people came out of house and interacted with trainees. They all appreciated the behaviour and attitude of our trainees.

SURVEY

In the preconference of the programme, six areas for survey, their questionnaires which were developed by the faculty members of the Institute were discussed. Trainees were trained how to interview the village people and collect data. The six areas of survey are:

2. Health and Hygiene of the Community
3. Survey of Primary Education
4. Survey of Community Resources for School Education

All the trainees of all four groups were given questionnaire of only one survey activity each day. All four groups visited different areas of the village. In each group again small groups were formed of two to three members. Each small group visited a house one after another and interacted with the family members. While one trainee was interacting, other members were recording.

In the evening, all the trainees were assembling near school office. All four groups of trainees were sitting separately and analysing the data collected. After analysis, they were handing it over to the group leader to which that activity was assigned. The group leader along with other members of that group was compiling all the data and was preparing the final report of that survey activity. This process continued for six days for six survey activities.

SKIT TOPIC: - DRUG ABUSE

MESSAGE OF THE SKIT.

In today's fast paced world, it is very easy to come in contact with easy and fast solutions to solve problems. However these solutions are often short termed and harmful for ourselves. Mental pressure, lack of guidance, lack of counselling, wrong company's influence, peer pressure lack of sense of security etc. could lead to the temptation and false idea that drug abuse could be the only solution to their problems, to solve this problem proper intervention and support is required.

The play in a clear tone warned about outcomes of using drugs and other forms of intoxications. The pain it inflicts its consumers and the ones close to them is a thousand times more than the temporary vicarious pleasure it provides. At no age one can completely comprehend the harsh realities of life and the drastic negative effect that drug abuse can have in one's life. Only the decision to completely avoid such practices despite the situations. The actors present different situations where the menace of drugs has consumed the lives of its takers and its traders along with the ones close to them. It is like a slow poison which will certainly destroy lives sooner or later. The only way to escape from it is to avoid drugs and also prevent one's dear ones from using it.

Once within the clutches of drug abuse in initial stages it could be handled with a little support intervention and counselling. In later stages it is imperative to take help from experts and even medical help as in rehabilitation centers. If left unchecked it could lead to disastrous results for the individual, their close ones and society as a whole.

Skit on Depression and Superstition:

Depression is a very natural process. Like any other disease this is also an ailment that affects our mind, thought process and mental well-being. Depression can be encountered at any stage of life but most people are found to encounter it at their adolescence or later. Several taboo and stigma are attached to depression and people generally deny to talk about it. But, like every other disease it is treatable and proper treatment can help the patient to get rid of it easily.

Depression shouldn't be associated with any sort of superstition nor should any depressed person be taken to Tantrik or Baba or any other belief system.

Counseling sessions and psychiatric treatments are the best options to get rid of depression

About the Nukkad Natak:

As the title says "Adrishyam" (Akuha Katha), this skit depicts the issue on old age and sensitivity towards it. The story starts with a family where the father and the mother along with their three sons lived happily. As the sons grew up, their priorities changed by their new families and lifestyle.

After 10 years, the story takes a leap and the sons are now married. The sons are burdened by their parent's responsibilities and demand an equal share of the property for their family. The story, after the leap, focuses on the misery of the ageing parents.

It's saddening how the ageing parents are treated these days by their children. Parents always try to make their children able and sometimes they even kill their desires to fulfil our wishes. Therefore, they have the right to expect something in their old age. Thus, they should be given proper care during their senescent phase.

Our skit tries to catch the attention of people towards this overlooked scenario.

Widow Remarriage Message

In Ancient Hindu Society widow re-marriage was considered as a sin because a widow was expected to mourn the death of her husband throughout her life. Hindu society by all means maintained double standards when it came to justifying the rights of a man and a woman.

Why a woman should be deprived of the right to remarry when a man was allowed to do the same?

We showed life of Sukanya who had married Guru and was leading a happy married life until he was martyred after a few months . Sukanya couldn't get herself out of the trauma, all her dreams were shattered . But no one around her cared for her. Everyone cursed her for bringing misfortune and bad luck to the family. Her own parents too disowned her and Everyone around became strangers . Sukanya lived her life in misery until one day her father-in-law finds a match for her .

Message Of the Drama

Our Skit tried to bring the awareness regarding the distinction between “Good Touch” and “Bad Touch’. We brought into attention the issue of Child Sexual Abuse and the four danger points in our body which we should not let anyone to touch (Except your mother) namely

- i) Mouth
- ii) Chest
- iii) Between the legs and below the abdomen (Genitals)
- iv) Below our waist at back (Buttocks)

Children are prone to molestation. Most of the cases in our country regarding this matter goes unreported, because of child’s hesitation and lack of awareness. In most of the cases it’s found that the molester is someone among the known people. So it is important that the child must be aware of, ‘what constitute a molestation and how to prevent themselves’. What actions should be taken if something starts to feel inappropriate? And to whom should they approach in such case?

Contact to Child Help Line Number: 1098 to report for any problem which you feel hard to escape.

Topic: Domestic Violence

Domestic violence (also called domestic abuse or family violence) is violence or other abuse that occurs in a domestic setting, such as in a marriage or cohabitation. In its broadest sense, domestic violence also involves violence against children, parents, or the elderly. It can assume multiple forms, including physical, verbal, emotional, economic, religious, reproductive, or sexual abuse.

In this nukkad natak, our group tried to show to the different forms of domestic violence in different Indian households and the fact that it is not only limited to women violence but the elderly, children and men also undergo through domestic violence.

Domestic violence is a punishable crime and the victims should voice their sufferings and seek justice. The more we talk about domestic violence, the more likely it becomes that we build awareness, identify abusive behaviors, and take action to prevent harm to people in our communities who may be family, friends, neighbors, or coworkers

MESSAGE OF OUR SKIT: -

The silence around menstruation is lack of access to sanitation facilities and hygienic absorbents directly affects women's and adolescent girl's self-esteem, health and education.

Access to hygiene products: in India, up to 80% of girls in rural area use old cloths as absorbents which results into vaginal infections are 70% more likely when using unhygienic materials.

In rural community's women and girls are forced to sleep in separate sheds while menstruating.

So, our message to society is that too aware of menstrual hygiene management by: -

- Women and adolescent girls using a clean menstrual management material(pad) to absorb or collect blood that can be changed in privacy as often as necessary for the duration of menstruation periods.
- Using soap and water for washing their body as required
- Having access to facilities to dispose of used menstrual management materials (pads).

Another message is that menstrual hygiene is not just about the management of the menstrual period but also the need to address societal beliefs and taboos surrounding the issue.

Gender Equity and Population Education Awareness

- Gender equity is fairness of treatment for women and men, according to their respective needs. This may include equal treatment or treatment that is different, but which is considered equivalent in terms of rights, benefits, obligations, and opportunities.
- According to the Survey of Badkul villagers, majority of the Men/Women are happy Being their respective genders But some of them don't enjoy the same status as their counterpart does. We found no discrimination among boy and girl child by their parents in all perspectives including education, food, freedom. In the survey we found that some couples prefer having atleast one male child.

- The villagers agreed that female's literacy rate is a contributing factor for the progress of nation and there is no restrictions for a female child to attend Co-Education school. From deciding life partner to sharing responsibilities the villagers believe that there is equal contribution of both husband and wife.
- According to survey females don't feel free to speak about their sexual problems. The views of villagers regarding marriage and learning a child seems to be evolved with time.
- The villagers think that pregnancy at early age affect the health of thr mother and they are against female foeticide. Also they believe that the family planning measures should be taken by both husband and wife.

Analysis of Human Resource

- Y-axis represents the number of people serving in the given occupations/ Human Resources (Doctor, Engineer...)
- X-Axis represents the Human Resources that are present in the community.
- Vertical bars represent the value for each category.

Optionally, the bars can be clustered in groups and/or stacked to facilitate comparisons.

The graph shows that the number of people occupied with “any other” occupations such as laborer, miners, truck drivers, heavy vehicle drivers, garbage factory workers etc. are high. Thus, it can be concluded that a majority of the local population earns on a day-to-day basis.

Analysis of Non-Human Resources

TOTAL LITERACY RATE

FAMILY TYPE

There are two family types and 53% are nuclear family and 47% are joint family.

This is a surprising percentage because in villages most of the time, we find more joint families.

FAMILY DISTRIBUTION

In family distribution, the percentage of male and female child is equal and adult male and female percentage is almost equal with adult female being 34% and adult male being 36%.

Generally we see in rural area that families prefer male child more than female child but here it is different and they are equal in percentage.

PARENT LITERACY RATE

In parent literacy rate, almost half the data we collected have studied till 12th (48%) and only a small portion of the people have done their graduation (21%) and 13% are illiterate.

CHILD LITERACY RATE

In child literacy rate, almost half of the children (48%) are between 1-7th class and the least percentage are of infants(7%).

- 1 - 7th
- 8 - 10th
- 11th & 12th

TOTAL LITERACY RATE

In total literacy rate, there is a huge difference between literacy of male and females, the male literates are 49% and female literates are only 9%. This shows that we have lacked in providing education to females.

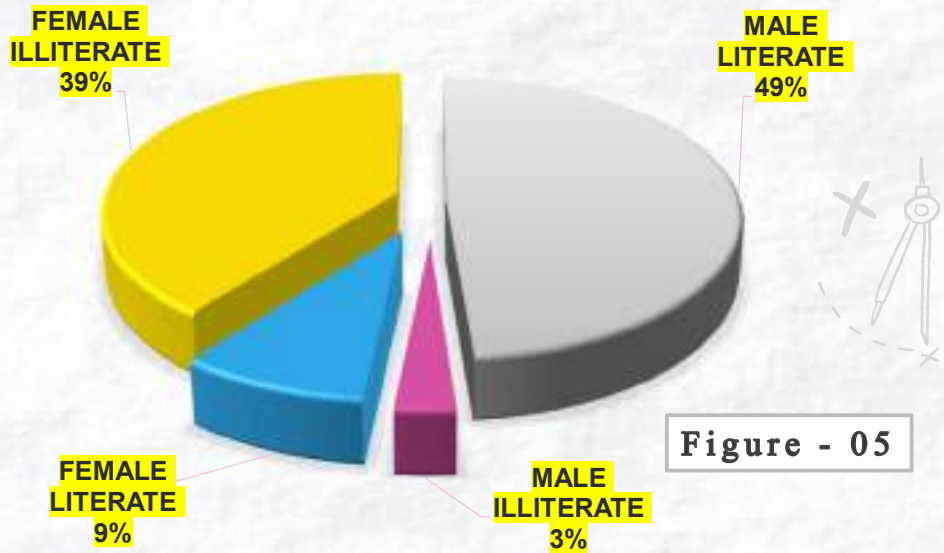

Figure - 05

If we compare between male and female literacy rate, 94% of males are literate and 82% of females are literate. There is not much difference between these two which is a good sign.

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN MALE AND FEMALE LITERACY RATE

Now at the end when we consider the whole data, we can determine that 88% of the people are literates and 12% are illiterates. This shows that the population is now more aware about education and its importance.

INTRODUCTION

Education is one of the key inputs contributing to the process of national development. This statement has been universally accepted. For development of human resources, investment in education is essential to empower people with appropriate knowledge, skills, values and attitudes, to enhance their quality of life, to improve their productivity and to enable them to participate fully in the development process. Policy makers, educators and others involved in education are seeking ways to utilize limited resources effectively and efficiently in order to identify and solve problems in the education sector and to provide quality education for children. Until the middle of the last century, responsibility for educating children rested with the community. There still are places where communities organize themselves to operate schools for their children today. There are various initiatives to outline the potential of community support, participation, and involvement to improve elementary education in a bigger way.

Community support and involvement in planning and management of elementary education in India is as old as our civilization. Various commissions and committees have reiterated the significance of community participation in achieving the goal of Universalizing Elementary Education. The National Policy on Education (1986) and its POA (1992) also envisage greater role of community in the field of education at the local level. The 73rd and 74th constitutional amendments relating to Panchayat Raj Institutions have further promoted decentralization of education and community participation.

In preparing and implementing efforts to promote community support, participation and involvement in education, it is important to understand the scenario of community support in education i.e. community initiative, awareness, participation and ownership in the promotion of education. Further, a deeper understanding of these issues are important, since the link between community involvement and educational access, equity and quality is not simple and involves various complex ideas. Here in this report though the practical aspects including the students experience has been shared. The theoretical descriptions are to explain the meaning of community, community support and participation in education and the involvement and participation of community in education. From the historical perspective, it is to analyze the scope and extent of community participation in elementary education, to appreciate some of the successful experiences of community participation in primary education in India and the need for empowering community and schools for effective partnership.

ROLE OF COMMUNITY: WHAT IS COMMUNITY?

Let us now define the term 'community'. Community can be defined by characteristics that the members share, such as culture, language, tradition, law, geography, class and race. There are many sociological and anthropological definitions of community. The common elements of these definitions are that community means a local environment of people who have interest in common as well as different interests. A community has an identity, a sense of place, of "Us" and "Them". A community is all of "We", who are not "they" and this is a collective significance of a distinctive name. (International Encyclopedia of Education, 1985).

As Shaeffer (1992) argues, some communities are homogeneous while others are heterogeneous, and some united, while others are conflictive. Some communities are managed and governed by leader chosen democratically who acts relatively autonomously from other levels of government, and some are governed by leaders imposed from above and represent central authorities.

Zenter (1964) points out three aspects of communities "

- 1) First, community is a group structure whether formally or informally organized in which members play roles which are integrated, around goals associated with the problems from collective occupation and utilization of habitational space.
- 2) Second, members of the community gave some degree of collective identification with the occupied space.
- 3) Lastly, the community has a degree of local autonomy and responsibility.

Brey (1996) presents three different types of communities; the first one is the geographic community, which is defined according to its member's place of residence, such as a village or district. The second type is the ethnic, racial and religious community, in which membership is based on ethnic, racial or religious identification, and commonly cut across membership based on geographic location. The third one is the community based on shared family or educational concerns, which include parents association and similar bodies that are based on families' shared concern for the welfare of the students.

A. R. Desai in his famous book, Rural Sociology has articulated, "The word community has, for the past many decades, denoted religious or caste groups or on some instances economic groups not necessarily living in one locality. But with the inauguration of community project development (CPD) in this country, it is intended to apply it to the concept of village community as a whole, cutting across caste, religious and economic differences.” Further, community has been variously defined in the discourse on education as ‘parents’ the ‘larger community’ and ‘elected representatives’ or member of such local structures as village education committees (VECs). It is apparent here that ‘community’ is not a homogeneous, monolithic entity, but one that lends itself to varying interpretations. This aspect of the heterogeneity of community could be viewed from two distinct perspectives:

- i. ‘Local class-caste composition when parents, as the background for children are taken into consideration,
- ii. The class composition of elected representatives influences the nature of involvement as well as the nature of conflicts arising from such involvement.

One can only draw context-specific notions of the word ‘community’. The need for contextualized understanding of the term can lead to multiple interpretations.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT AND PARTICIPATION

Community support and participation has to be perceived as a context-specific expression based on the degree of involvement of people, to bring certain systemic changes with a basic objective of ushering in development and improvement in the quality of life of the participants. This involvement could be in health, education, social security etc.

The term participation can be interpreted in various ways, depending on the context. Shaffer (1994) classifies different degrees or level of participations, and provides seven possible definitions of the term including :

- Involvement through the mere use of a service (such as enrolling children in school or using a primary health care facility);
- Involvement through the contribution (or extraction) of money, materials and labour;
- Involvement through ‘attendance’ (e.g. At parents’ meeting at school), implying passive acceptance of decisions made by others);
- Involvement through consultation on a particular issue;
- Participation in the delivery of a service, often as a partner with other actors;
- Participation as implementers of delegated powers; and
- Participation “in real decision making at every stage,” including identification of problems, the study of feasibility, planning, implementation, and evaluation.

Shaeffer stresses that the first four definitions use the word involvement and connote largely passive collaboration, whereas the last three items use the word participation instead, implying a much more active role.

Shaeffer further provides some specific activities that involve a high degree of participation in a wider development context, which can also be applied in the education sector, including:

- Collecting and analyzing information;
- Defining priorities and setting goals;
- Assessing available resources;
- Deciding on planning programmes;
- Designing strategies to implement these programme and dividing responsibilities among participants;
- Managing programmes;
- Monitoring progress of the programmes; and
- Evaluating results and impacts.

As we are aware, education takes place not only in schools but also within families, communities and society. Education is a socialization process, which should ideally be seen as a partnership among students, schools / teachers and parents / community.

Despite the various degrees of responsibilities taken by each group, none can be the sole agent to take full responsibility for educating children. Parents and families cannot be the only group of people of children's education as long as their children interact with and learn from the world outside their families. Communities and societies must support parents and families in the upbringing, socializing and education of their children. This in turn can be called community support and participation in education.

Schools are institutions that can prepare children to contribute to the betterment of the society in which they operate, by equipping them with skills important in society. Since each group plays a different role in contributing to children's education, there must be efforts to make a bridge between them in order to maximize the contributions. Education takes place most efficiently and effectively when these different groups of peoples collaborate. Accordingly, it is important to establish and continuously attempt to develop partnerships between schools, parents and communities.

Schools, families, and communities can work productively together to improve community participation :

- 1) Parenting – to help all families establish home environments that support children’s learning at schools;
- 2) Communicating – to design effective forms of school-to-home and home-to-school communication that enable parents to learn about school programmes and their children’s progress in schools as well as help teachers to learn about how children do at home.
- 3) Volunteering – to recruit and organize parental help and support;
- 4) Learning at home – to include families in school decisions, to have parent leaders and representatives in school meetings; and
- 5) Decision making – to including families in school decisions, to have parent leaders and representatives in school meetings; and
- 6) Collaborating with the community – to identify and integrate resources as well as series from as services from the community in order to strengthen school programmes, family practices, and student learning.

The term ‘community support and participation in elementary education’ is a comprehensive one. It can be construed as the total participation of the community in the system to facilitate the achievement of the goals of UEE. Complete community participation could be considered as a tool for self-development and empowerment of the community. The type of participation also ensures community development because it fulfills the most important requirement of development (i.e. literacy), which, in turn, enhances the individual’s economic mobility, and range of choices. Another aspect related to this is the manner in which the communities create conditions for greater participation of children in education and the obligations of the community vis-à-vis education. Does their role end with the participation of children, or is there something beyond it? Are there any specific roles and responsibilities of the community that would enhance effectiveness of the education system? What are the implications of such participation on the specific roles of the government, educational bureaucracy and other stakeholders? These issues are particularly important in the Indian context as a significant proportion of the enrolled children are first generation learners and the stakes are high in the country for investing in education.

HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVES

India has a long tradition of communities supporting education. In the precolonial period, facilities for mass education were maintained locally with the help of parents and local communities. The community also contributed space for school and materials for the students. The content of the education was designed and outlined by the teacher and the community together.

In British India, local bodies like the Panchayats and Municipalities were set up and apart from other functions, they had the responsibility of organizing school education. The government stipulated the content of education, but the organization and administration of the schools was left to the local bodies. There are also incidents of the setting up of private schools by local communities.

Universal elementary education has become one of the constitutional commitments of independent India. After independence primary and middle schools were taken out of the control of local bodies and were transferred to governmental regulation. Thus centralization of education started which alienated it from the community. The notion began to magnify the governmental role and diminish the role of community; therefore it was the government's responsibility to look after it. Centralization though born out of an intention to improve the quality of education, failed to effect such a change. However, even in this bleak scenario, the community was coming forward in certain place to improve the conditions of schools.

The B.G. Kher Committee (1953), emphasized the need for decentralization of management to attract community involvement at the grassroots level. It recommended involvement of all types of local bodies to promote and manage education in the interest of mass education. Subsequently the Balwant Rai Mehta Committee (1957), recommended that primary education should become the responsibility of the Panchayats. While the matter of standards remained with the Department of Education, financial and administrative aspects of management were transferred to Panchayati Raj Bodies. In spite of some deficiencies, some significant gains were noted as a result of this move.

Further, the Bongirwar Committee (1971), viewed education as an instrument of social change and stated that education cannot function in isolation from social forces. The village schools have an important role to play in creating a proper environment in rural areas. Therefore, the local people must be associated with the working of schools. This committee recommended transfer of more functions to Panchayati Raj bodies including transfer of teacher, academic administration and supervision of the school etc. Ashok Mehta Committee (1978), advocated transfer of substantial powers and responsibilities in education to Zila Parishads. These powers and responsibilities included transfer of teachers, monthly transfer of salary funds from the state and composition of a Board of Education for maintenance of quality and standard of education.

Community participation has been acknowledged as one of the effective strategies of achieving the goal of UEE as has been reflected in the recommendation of various commissions / committees on education. The need for decentralized planning of school education especially of primary education has been strongly stressed in NPE 1986 (as revised in 1992) which recommended not only promoting participation of the community in elementary education but also a movement towards empowering the local community to take major management decisions in this regard. It proposed adopting the Eleventh Schedule of the Constitution which provides among other things for entrusting with Panchayati Raj Bodies, education including primary education, secondary education, teacher training, vocational education, adult and non-formal education, literacy and cultural activities. The subsequent 73rd and 74th constitutional amendments gave further momentum to this move towards decentralization and community empowerment in the management of education. Taking cognizance of the 73rd and 74th amendments, C.A.B.E., set up a special committee under the then Chief Minister of Karnataka, Veerappa Moily, in 1993 who formulate a framework for decentralized management of education under the Panchayat Raj Institutional (PRI) framework. The committee recommended the setting up of Village Education Committees (VECs) and Panchayat Samitis on Education at the block level. Since 1994 the PRIs and VECs have been involved in education in different states, though their participationeven across the states.

Community participation (parents, community as well as local elected bodies) was visualized as one of the basic components of all major UEE projects which were initiated in pursuance of NPE 1986 recommendations like Bihar Education Project, U.P. Basic Education Project, DPEP, Lok Jumbish etc. In DPEP, decentralization and community participation are being put into practice on a very large scale. Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan (SSA) which is the latest nation-wide programme formulated by the Government of India to universalize elementary education also lays emphasis on community ownership of the school system. This will be augmented by effectively involving the Panchayati Raj Institutions, school management committees, village and urban slum level Education

Committees, Parent Teacher Associations, Mother Teacher Associations, women's groups, Tribal Autonomous Councils and other grass roots level structures in the management of elementary schools. The SSA works on a community based approach to planning and monitoring the system of elementary education. It envisages cooperation between teachers, parents and PRIs.

COMMUNITY PARTICIPATION IN EDUCATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

The goal of any kind of activity that attempts to involve community and families / parents in education is to improve the educational delivery so that more children learn better and are well prepared for the changing world. There are various reasons to support the idea that community participation contributes to achieving this goal.

Community participation is institutionalized through establishment of structural bodies like PRIs, VECs, and PTAs / MTAs. These arrangements have come up as a sequel to 73rd and 74th constitutional amendments for involving local community. Village Education Committee that comprises seven to fifteen members has the responsibility of promoting enrolment, assisting in smooth functioning of the school, and mobilizing resources for school improvement. VECs have been entrusted with the responsibility to check attendance, school functioning and accountability of teachers. To ensure their empowerment, training is imparted in the desired task they have to perform. Further, the role of Parents Teacher Association and Mother Teacher Association has become more prominent as a sequel to the National Policy on Education and District Primary Education Program. The major functions of PTAs and MTAs include contacting parents of the children who do not go to school and children who remain absent, and promoting local support.

The scope of community participation in the educational process has been expanded and widely acknowledged over the decades. The decentralized system envisages the community as an active partner in the process of planning, designing, implementing, monitoring and evaluating the school activities. Community support and participation can be enhanced through following measures.

Utilizing Existing Resources: We have been committed to delivering education to children but learning materials as well as human resources are limited in our country. The focus has shifted to finding efficient and effective ways to utilize existing limited resources. Involving parents, families and communities in the process of data collection can reveal to them factors that contribute to lower enrollment and attendance and poor academic performance in their schools. Furthermore, parents are usually concerned about their children's education, and often are willing to provide assistance that can improve the educational delivery. Parents and communities are powerful resources to be utilized not only in contributing to the improvement of educational delivery but also in becoming the core agents of educational delivery. In places where teacher absenteeism and poor performance are critical issues, parents can be part of the system of monitoring and supervising teachers, ensuring that teachers arrive in classrooms on time and perform effectively in the classrooms.

Developing relevant Curriculum and Learning Materials: The schools consider the community as the center of learning as well as the focus of education, which enables community life, such as festivals, customs, musical instruments and local business activities, to be reflected in the curriculum. The oral tradition is transcribed and local crafts, jobs and economic activities, health problems, geography, landscapes, transport, sports, dances, food, animals, vegetation, and minerals are also described and classified for use in learning experiences. Community involvement helps achieve curricula and learning materials that reflect children's everyday lives in society. When children use textbooks and other materials that illustrate their own lives in their community, they can easily associate with what they are learning and what they already know.

Identifying and Addressing Problems: Communities can help identify and address factors that contribute to educational problems, such as low participation, access and poor academic performance.

Promoting Girls' Education: Community participation can contribute to promoting girls' education. Through participating in school activities and frequently communicating with teachers, parents and communities can learn that girls education contributes to the improvement of various aspects of their lives, such as increased economic productivity, improved family health and nutrition, reduced fertility rates, and reduced child mortality rates. Involving parents and communities in discussions as part of school activities also helps to identify factors that prevent girls from schooling. Parents are encouraged to express their concern, and reasons why they are not sending their daughters to school. For instance, many parents in rural areas are reluctant to send their daughters to schools located at a distance, due to their concern about the security of their daughters on the way to and from the school. In addition, since girls are important labourers in the household, helping their mothers to do the chores and take care of their younger siblings, the time spent going to and from school seems too much of a waste for the parents.

Involving parents and communities in school activities also helps to identify possible teachers in the community, especially local female teachers who greatly help in girls' education. Furthermore, in places where communities are indifferent to girls' education, elderly people or religious leaders who are respected by community members can convince them to send their girls to schools, if the dialogue with these respected people takes place successfully.

Creating and Nourishing Community-School Partnerships: There are various ways to bring parents and community members closer to schools which they serve, including: (a) minimizing discontinuities between schools and communities, and between schools and families; (b) minimizing conflicts between schools and communities, schools and families, teachers and parents, and what is taught in school and what is taught at home; (c) making easy transition of pupils going from home to school; (d) preparing pupils to engage in learning experiences; and (e) minimizing cultural shock of new entrants to schooling. Communities can contribute to schools by sending respected community members, such as religious leaders or tribe heads, to the classrooms to talk about community history, traditions, customs, and culture, which have been historically celebrated in the community. Schools themselves can contribute to community efforts by developing sustainable solutions to local problems.

Increasing Accountability: Parental involvement in education, particularly in school governance, is seen as a means of making schools more accountable to the society which funds them. When parents contribute their time, labor, materials, land, and funds, they tend to be more involved in school activities, including participating in meetings with teachers and monitoring teachers' performance. Teachers and school staff, in turn, feel more obliged to deliver better education for the students in order to respond to the needs of parents and communities. Participation can greatly help develop accountability, which contributes to improving the education delivery.

Ensuring Sustainability: Community members are expected to be actively involved in the process of interventions through planning, implementation, and evaluation. Furthermore, they are expected to acquire skills and knowledge that will later enable them to take over the programme as well contribute as and when needed.

Improving Home Environment: Community participation can contribute to preparing and improving home environment, by encouraging parents to understand about the benefits of their children's schooling. Furthermore, families who are involved in schools not only have a better understanding about education but also become more willing to cooperate with schools in attempts to improve children's learning. In addition, parents can help their children with homework, and make sure that children are physically ready to learn at schools. The parent and the community are some of the key factors to determine school effectiveness because they can prepare children's readiness to come to school and their cognitive development, by ensuring children's well-balanced nutrition and health.

Community participation can contribute to education delivery through various channels. The following is a list of ways through which communities can contribute to education delivery such as:

- Advocating enrollment and education benefits;
- Boosting moral of school staff;
- Raising money for schools;
- Ensuring students' regular attendance and completion;
- Constructing, repairing, and improving school facilities;
- Contributing in labour, materials, land and funds;
- Recruiting and supporting teachers;
- Making decisions about school locations and schedules;
- Monitoring and following up on teacher attendance and performance;
- Forming village education committees to manage schools;
- Actively attending school meetings to learn about children's learning progress and classroom behavior;
- Providing skill instruction and local culture information;
- Helping children with studying;
- Garnering more resources from and solving problems through the educational bureaucracy;
- Advocating and promoting girls' education;
- Providing security for teachers by preparing adequate housing for them;
- Scheduling school calendars;
- Handling the budget to operate schools;
- Identifying factors contributing to educational problems (low enrollment, and high repetition and dropout); and

- Preparing children's readiness for schooling by providing them with adequate nutrition and stimuli for their cognitive development.

School is a miniature community as the teachers, parents, and other staffs are having common values and standards for the education of the students. Mutual exchange and sharing of resources and facilities between school and community is essential for national development. The community can be defined by characteristics that the members share, such as culture, language, tradition, law, geography, class and race. It is applied to the concept of the village community as a whole, cutting across caste, and religious and economic differences. Further, community has been variously defined in the discourse of education as 'parents' 'the larger community' and elected 'representatives' or members of such local structures as Village Education Committees. The schools, families, and communities can work productively together for educational development by collaborating with community to identify and integrate resources as well as services from the community in order to strengthen school programmes, family practices, and student learning. So, the student teachers need to have knowledge and awareness about the community and neighbourhood and the relationship between school and community. Considering the value of relationship between school and community and the facilitating role of teachers in the B. Ed curriculum has the provision for working with community. School is a prototype of society and its development is linked to resources and facilities available in community. Different committees and commissions at national and international level have given stress on involvement of community and its members in the functioning of schools. Hence, prospective teachers must gain experience in working with community schools and its functioning. It is observed that presently less number of student teachers is interested in working with village schools. Hence, need was felt to orient prospective teachers for working in the village schools and bring favourable attitude towards village school and children. Further, student teachers need to have awareness about the nature of community and its resources, which can be used for the quality improvement of education.

The Secondary Education Commission (1952-53) took note of the changed political, social and economic conditions of the country and restated the objectives of education such as (i). Development of democratic citizenship which includes: - (a) clear thinking (b) Receptivity to new ideas (c) Clearness in speech and writing (d) Training in art of living in community (e) Passion for social Justice (f) Development of tolerance (g) Development of true patriotism (ii). Improvement of Vocational efficiency:- (a) Appreciation of dignity of work (b) Appreciation of the value of world work (c) Promotion of technical skills(iii).

Development of Personality: - (a) Releasing the sources of creative energy (b) Appreciation of cultural heritage (iv). Development of Qualities for Leadership:- (a) Training in discipline (b) Clear understanding of social issues.

One of the important objectives under Development of Democratic Citizenship is Training in the Art of Living in Community. Each and every objective of Secondary Education Commission can be fulfilled through the process of working with community. Working with community is also known as field work with community which is an integral part of two year (IV Semester) B Ed. It has conceived and practiced in Regional Institute of Education, Bhubaneswar. The programme is conducted with the following objectives:

- To acquaint with the student teachers with the factors working within the society, community i.e. knowledge of social realities.
- To develop the dignity of labour among student teachers through community work.
- To arouse the interest of student teachers in the social and economic reconstruction of the country.
- To make the student teachers aware with the educational problems and needs of the society
- To enable the student teachers for preparing the youth for sustainable development.
- To develop the personality of student teachers through community service.
- To develop understanding among student teachers about the social and economic issues of rural community.
- To create awareness about the educational and societal needs of rural community.

NEED AND JUSTIFICATION OF THE PROGRAMME

Pre-service teacher education programme aim to prepare trainees to become quality teachers equipped with pedagogical practices that will serve to meet the increasing demands associated with the teaching profession (Bransford et al., 2005). Over the last decade, the focus on developing quality teachers has received increased attention in education (Barber & Mourshed, 2009; Bransford et al., 2005; Hattie, 2004). Viewing learning as a social and cultural process the pre-service teachers' developing expertise should not only reside in the knowledge domains typically established by universities and schools. A crucial knowledge domain that is often overlooked by schools and teacher education institutes (TEIs) is the community beyond the walls of the school classroom and university lecture hall. Now-a-days marked gap has been experienced in the theory and practice of teaching. It may be due to the lack of experience of the teachers about the society, its needs and aspirations.

As seen, exposure to community has the potential to be both generative and transformative. Bringle and Hatcher (1996) reported that community-learning is a powerful pedagogical tool which enhances the complex process of teacher preparation while at the same time promoting and raising awareness about local community needs. Responding to these calls for a transformation in the way we prepare teachers for the twenty-first century, a clear shift is emerging. The move away from a rigid focus on new teachers' development of technical skills toward the integration of more community-based knowledge in teacher education has been reported in different contexts (Haddix, 2015; Zeichner et al., 2015; Harfitt and Chow, 2018).

The student-teachers, after becoming appointed as teachers, find it difficult to adapt themselves in to the real learning situations. It was experienced that they were unable to carry-out innovative practices in their teaching-learning process. This may be due to the lack of community participation on the part of the student-teachers. Therefore, there is a need to provide the community experiences to the student-teachers. So that they can make themselves aware of the socio-cultural, educational, economical issues and problems related to the society and can prepare themselves to be teacher-practitioner.

IDENTIFICATION OF PLACE IN AND AROUND THE INSTITUTE FOR WWC PROGRAMME

The programme coordinator Dr. Rasmirekha Sethy had visited different places in and around the RIE, Campus for Working With Community Programme along with other associated faculty members from 5th to 7th February 2021 after getting the permission of the Competent Authority for finding suitability to send our students for conducting awareness programme. Dr. Rasmirekha Sethy, Programme Coordinator discussed with the leaders of different slum area located nearby the RIE, Campus for such programme. The coordinator and associated faculty member found the places namely Anand Bazar Slum, Tarini/Science Park slum, Bhoi Nagar slum and Ganesh Slum are suitable places which were specious for conducting the programme. The overall leader of all slums was Trinath Sahu who cooperated a lot to work out in enthusiastic manner in the slum. He was a motivational leader who has spent his valuable time with our student teachers and slum member to make them understand that what the purpose of this programme is.

METHODOLOGY OF THE PROGRAMME

The mode of transaction were rally with placards, competition or debate, poster and banner display, mass movement, nukkad nataka, survey, interviews and awareness programme in the slum area. Through this process the student teachers got exposure to the community life for seven days and connected with the slum members.

The orientation programme of Working with Community (WWC) of B.Ed. –IV Semester was held on 08.02.2021 in the Auditorium Hall of the Institute. Attending the programme was compulsory for all the B.Ed. IV Semester students. Total 95 student teachers attended the programme. The coordinator and other faculty members of the Dept. of Education and Institute have elaborated the details of the activities to be conducted during the programme. Prof. M.K Satpathy said that this programme has been designed in such a way which will serve the purpose of the social needs reflected in the curriculum. Through this programme the student teachers will develop understanding of the problems and try to solve the problems of the community with the cooperative efforts. He explained how the student teachers can be useful for the society. Prof. Pritish Acharya, I/c HOD, DESSH expressed that for this programme firstly the student teachers are to develop theoretical understanding. After that they will learn maximum while interacting or mingling with community as community is the extended form of Society. He stated this programme does not go waste. Prof. Gowamma .I. P. HOD, Education motivated to the student teachers by saying that they are all leaders. They have already developed such kind of qualities through multicultural programme. As all most all are staying in the hostel, they are getting time to go out from the hostel to community. This programme will develop the insight of the student teachers as they are exposed to the urban slum area. This programme will serve the learning needs of the students. They will come to know the physical surrounding of outside and inside of the campus. Really, they will come to know the socio-cultural components and the economic issues of slum areas. All student teachers are responsibility holder. They are going to contribute a lot towards development of society. Prof. B.N Panda, Dean Research, spoke that physically all student teachers are here but your mind may be going to the field for good work. You have 15 days exposure and you are 20th batch who are going to participate in the WWC programme. He said about the programme that how the programme was conducted in earlier days by citing statement accommodating 100 students at a place is difficult. The old student teachers were getting up at 5.00 AM and with the group only they were going to village for Prabhat Pheri at 6.00AM by holding placard. Their breakfast was provided at 8.30AM. They were going to different schools by walk at 9.00AM. Whatever was done, it was done at exact time. He appreciated the coordinator by saying that she is an cooperative and intelligent person. He appreciated ex students by highlighting how the student teachers were staying in the community with the greater cause to learn how to live in the community and how the coordinator and other faculty members also take pain while staying in the community. He cited this is an awareness programme by which the student teachers will serve the society with selfless motive. He highlighted that coordinator has lots of responsibility starting from identification of the venue to student teachers safe returning to the institute. Prof. A.K Mohapatra, Head, DESM said that though it is a part of the curriculum for student teachers, they are also eager to go for working with community. Becoming a teacher or teaching is not everyone's cup of tea. Majority of trainees are here by chance not by choice. This programme is not meant for cleaning this or that. Last year this programme was in Chilika and may be in the next year in Chilika also. He highlighted the gap between school and community. Without the interaction with the community you cannot be a complete teacher. While doing or involving in the programme be careful for Covid-19. Whatever you will get experience, will be for yourself. Prof, Sandhyarani Sahoo, Dean of Instruction and In-charge principal encouraged the students by putting the words. There are different kinds of activities held in the institute out of those this WWC programme is a unique one. Student teachers are the agent of social change as teachers are the right persons to bring the change in the society. The student teachers will be experiencing about the problems faced by the slum. Quality of education can be ensured through this kind of activity. Pupil teachers personality will grow by this programme. Trainees will get the experience on real life situation. Here there are three stake holders such as student teacher, we and community. For this programme student teachers are required to take globes, masks, and sanitizer and maintain social distancing. Prof. Ramakanta Mohalik, faculty of education informed that this programme will develop awareness among student teachers about community. The success of the programme depends upon the awareness level of trainees about different activities. By cultural programme student teachers can give variety of message to the slum members. He appreciated to the student teachers by saying that all are multitalented and can do wonder. The intension of Nukkad Natak is to provide the message to the people of slum about different social problems. In the survey, some questions related to life style diseases and COVID-19 added this time to create awareness among slum dwellers. He stated that no work is superior and no work is inferior. All the students will do the physical exercise, Shrama Dana, practice for cultural programme and games. Through this kind of activity the student teachers will have the all round development.

Introduction

Field work with community is one of the extra curriculum activity among all the other activities like school exposure, multicultural, school internship that has been prescribed by NCERT and NCTE for 2 years B. Ed. students. It gives an ample opportunity to understand the different shades of community and life of community members. It is a channel through which student teacher can socialize them and to cope with the steady changes that society and community undergoes. It embarks new socialism in to the life of students which brings new challenges and endeavors new approach and enthusiasm among the student teachers for nation building.

Pre – Conference Programme cum Orientation Programme on 4th March 2022.

The registration of the students happened between 9.30- 10 AM. The inaugural session began at 10.15 AM in presence of Principal Prof. P.C. Agarwal, Dean of Instructions Prof. Sandhya Rani Sahoo, Dean of Research Prof. B.N. Panda, Head- Department of Education I P Gowwamma, Coordinator Dr. Rashmi Rekha Shethy and all the students of B.Ed 2nd Year. The dignitaries shared their vast experience of Community work which they had conducted in the previous years. Prof. Sandhya Rani Sahoo ma'am guided us regarding the indigenous practices of different places. She encouraged us to perform the Nukkad Natak as it's the best possible way to bring the social issues into consideration. Principal sir mentioned the importance of the B.Ed. program by saying that teaching is a noble profession, teacher act as social reformer, change maker. The respect from students what the teacher gets is always worth it for all the hardships that we do. In this community work program, it is important to understand that role of SMC (School Management Committee) in school process. Knowing the background and local context of the child is important for the optimum growth and holistic development of the learner. Between 11 to 11:30 Prof B.N. Panda, Prof S.P. Mishra and Dr. E. Gangmei explained about the objectives and importance of working with community Programme. Prof B.N. Panda sir told us to exhibit the inner self in-front of community so that the rapport could be build up. Between 11.30- 1 PM various activities which are to be conducted in Community Programme are elaborated by Prof. Gowamma I.P., Prof. L.D. Behera and Dr. Dhanya Krishnan. In the second half General Discussions took place in the group and we were given various cues regarding the Nukkad Natak by Dr. Upasana Ray.

Day 1,5th March Visit to Shri Aurobindo Purnanga Sikhya Kendra.(Shri Aurobindo School of Integral education)

A very positive vibe because of Natural environment. Integral Education-All round development of a student. The silence of the students was portraying the ideas of Shrima and Shri Aurobindo. Naturalism was the key initiative of both the personalities. The meditation was impactful and we could realize how concentration could be improved. The integration of music with spiritual environment was something new to see. The awareness of the professionals about NEP 2020 was worth for the educational environment where the students incorporated with practical skills and experiential learning. Students are given opportunity for craft works (hands –on – work) and is appreciated than the rote learning. A special curriculum from KG 1 to class 7, after that followed by Odisha government curriculum. Irrespective of old infrastructure the happiness could be seen among students in decorating the campus and Samadhi of Shri Aurobindo. No commercialization was found in the school. All the vegetables are grown and fed for students only. Kamdhenu kutir keeping cows and love for animals is seen among all. Here, total education is considered to make the holistically developed rather than just studying. Human values and moral values are of the most importance. Silence in the Human civilization connects to the natural world.

Group wise it is assigned that every day one group would serve food to all and also assist the cooking staffs. So, in the first day Group A served the food and ensured that hygiene to be maintained and all would get the food.

Between 9.30 AM to 10.30 AM- We settled with the available accommodation and assembled so that we could interact with the CRCC (Cluster Resource Community Coordinator) and villages could be allotted to each of the group. We went to the allotted village that is Ushpodar so that we can build the rapport with the village people to conduct the further activities.

After coming from the Village, we had lunch took some rest and then we were assembled at the evening at 4 PM so that we can visit Aurobindo school.

4.30 PM- We visited the Shri Aurobindo Purnango Sikhya Kendra. There we witnessed the integral education in true sense. Apart from the infrastructure we noticed a natural environment with different kind of plants grown around which adds to the place. We gave our homage to Shri Aurobindo Samadhi which was so peaceful from inside and gave a touchwood to all of us to commence the journey of Community work in the coming days. We observed the students doing little work with pleasure which could be plucking flowers to adorn the Samadhi, feeding the cows. The whole campus around 15 acres was well used. Crop rotation was done including vegetables, wheat, potato. Whatever grown was completely used in the school. Milk produced is also given to the students. The hostels are also well equipped with basic availabilities so that students can live and read properly. We participated in the meditation activity been a part of evening assembly which was so soothing. We gave our homage to Shri ma also.

9.30 PM- We gave the review at the end of the day. The first day reflections could portray our difficulties in our words but we were ready to squeeze our problems and come out with the best possible solutions.

Day 2, 6th March Visit to Ushpadar village under Dashirathi cluster

Gender equality and population education awareness, Health and Hygiene of the Community, Survey of primary education in rural Odisha, Survey of community resources for school education, Educational Survey of Community, Interview schedule for parents regarding RTE Act 2009- These are the following activities which we did and it seemed that for the first time we handled a mass data altogether which was brainstorming in true sense. Hesitation could be seen among people while sharing. Males are given more importance at the same time girls are sent to government school while boys are sent to private school. Community people collaborate together to clean the surroundings irrespective of government support. Government School is 2 km away from their residents, so it's tough for access of education but anganwadi centres are near where enrollment is being done with all facilities. Irrespective of so called urbanization still less people are involved in professional activities rather fishing remains the occupation of majority of the people staying there. All the females in the house basically were 10th dropout while males are involved in ITI courses are being preferred to do private jobs with some minimum money for having a basic life style. Right to education is just meant for facilities for the people rather than full-fledged educational curriculum. The cultural activities conducted in the evening are refreshing to get the mental equilibrium.

6:30 AM - We all assembled at the school ground where we were staying Balika Utch Vidyalaya Kalupada Ghat. Our coordinator teacher Dr. Rashmi Rekha Sethy was the instructor of the physical activities. We first started with toe exercise and went on till head exercise. Mam demonstrated the exercise and we then followed her. This was very refreshing and prepared us for the day. My group participated in this activity with full energy and enthusiasm. This was done till 7.30 am and then tea and biscuits were served to us by our classmates (Group B).

8:00 AM – we all went for our next activity in community work “shram dan” were we all had to clean the school ground. We all with full energy went on with work to clean our school. We were given the tools which helped us in cleaning process. My all-group members actively participated in this and cleaned the area allotted. This activity was very helpful to know that our duty is not just to keep our house or surroundings clean but to keep our society clean too. This work was done for 1 hour and then we all were time to fresh up for the day and get ready for our next community work. We had our breakfast by 10.00 am.

10:30 AM –Group was assigned ushpadar village which was around 2 km away. Our team assigned with a local teacher Mr. Bula Sahu who guided us to the village. There our team was distributed in group of 3 with 1 odia and 2 non-odia so that we have no communication problem. We all then assembled at 12.30 pm and discussed our survey data work and completed our report collection work. This was completed by 1 pm. We all returned to our school by 1.30 pm had our lunch and we were given time to rest.

5:00 PM- We all again assembled in the school ground for the preparation of our nukkad natak. We all had a discussion to search for the topic which is relevant to the village issues. We selected the topic of girl child education and child marriage. We prepared the script and the group members were assigned the role that they had play. All the group members started the preparation. Then by 7.00pm we returned to the assembly area.

8:00 PM- There was a program where a Odia singer was invited who filled us with energy. All the students enjoyed the program and all the tiredness of the day was forgotten for the day. We then had our dinner by 9.00 pm.

9:30 PM-We all groups' members assembled for the preparation of group reflection and the days reflection report was sent to mam.

10:30 PM- all the group individually presented their day's refection and we were given next day schedule.

Day 3, 7th March Community Survey & Classroom observation (Anla Diha)

The same schedule being followed, starting with Physical activity, Shrama Dana and then we went for the rally. Irrespective of the scorching heat of the sun, getting drained with no water after the rally we entered into the school. The joy of playing seen in the eyes of the students with bare feet rejoiced us again. The zone of criticism reduced into appreciation after seeing the efforts that the individuals are putting forward for the upliftment of the community. A school where the walls communicate with the quotes and messages that's what a classroom is in sense. The moment a teacher and student differentiate between any random room and the classroom thereby the journey of teaching learning process begins in true sense. The classroom walls were with various quotes and information which were adding to the learners' knowledge. The teachers had a good rapport with the students, immaterial was the method or strategy at that point because their ultimate way of gaining knowledge is by the teacher only. The school was certainly lacking in resources, infrastructure and teachers but the teachers were trying to make it best for the learners. The activities we did was Classroom observation of Social Science, Focus Group Discussion and Survey of Secondary School. We found that the school is producing around 100 % result for class 10th in the last few academic sessions.

Hardworking is the key to which the group nailed to complete the work. A common thing noted that the mentality of women was like staying inside home rather than working outside. A support is there from the male counterpart to let them work and all are so aware of the hygienic issues whether it be in detail like menstrual cycle. The drainage system is so properly maintained by the community people in rotational basis irrespective of the support from the government. During the survey we visited to different houses and interacted with different family members and met with people of different age groups whether it be a kid, school going kid, adult people, and old people. Their point of views were different which gave us that how the mentality varies with age, gender, and house. Irrespective of the language barrier as we all are from different places still we tried to communicate with the people in Hindi, Odiya and the astonishing thing was that people were also trying to communicate with us and trying to make us comfortable.

Day 4, 8th March Nukkad Natak in Jaganathpur Village.

The morning started with exercise in the first sunshine. The enthusiasm can be seen among the teachers and students. Various workouts involving the psychomotor and cognitive amalgamation made us alert from inside. A clean environment sets the mood for the day.

The voyage of cleanliness starts from own house. We cleaned the surroundings and made it free from plastic, weeds and thorny bushes. We built a mindset that clean environment inculcates a clean mind. People got encouraged to do the same around their home and shops. Irrespective of the tiring schedule we managed to interact with community around us in the most effective manner. The details we got about hygiene, Education, Population, Profession enthralled us with diversity that we can find even within a small village.

The theme of Girls' Education, Women Empowerment, and Ill effects of Drinking Alcohol, Domestic Violence, and Gender sensitivity had to be put in front of the local natives of Jaganathpur in a form of entertainment so that they find the ease in accepting the change. The venture of Nukkad started with scripting, casting followed by brainstorming to put the message in the most acceptable form. The stage ignited the spark of performing arts in all of us. The natural sentiments were also included by each and every member. The hard work was appreciated by the people which made us realize our role to serve the community. The message was vibrant to create the change among them. In true meaning we realized that a teacher is an all-rounder.

He also shared the difficulties students used to face during that time and how they adapted to such situations. Prof. Sandhya Rani Sahoo madam guided us regarding the indigenous practices of different places. She encouraged us to perform the Nukkad Natak at it is the best possible way to bring the social issues into the forefront so that we as a whole can impart. Principal sir mentioned the importance of the B.Ed. program by saying that teaching is a noble profession, teacher acts as a social reformer, change maker. The respect from students what the teacher gets is always worth it for all the hardships that we do. In this community work program, it is important to understand the role of SMC(School Management Committee) in the school process. Knowing the background and local context of the child is important for the optimum growth and holistic development of the learner. Between 11 to 11:30 AM, Prof B.N. Panda, Prof S.P. Mishra and Dr. E. Gangmei explained about the objectives and importance of Working with Community Programme. Prof B.N. Panda sir told us to exhibit the inner self in-front of community so that the rapport could be built. Between 11.30- 1 PM various activities which are to be conducted in Community Programme are elaborated by Prof. I.P. Gowramma, Prof. L.D. Behera and Dr. Dhanya Krishnan. In general all the professors' main objective was to explain the importance of community work and they told that we all should actively participate in this work, so that we can learn something out of it. During this time many of us participated in demo NukkadNatak.

DAY 1- 5TH MARCH 2022

On the first day we began our journey towards Dasarathi block of Chilika. For our whole B.Ed group two buses were arranged by the institute. Science and Arts students were allotted separate buses accompanied by our teachers. During our journey we had our breakfast. In breakfast there was Frooti drink and cake. We all enjoyed this time during our journey as there was a very much excitement to go to a new place.

We reached Kalupudaghat of Dasarathi block around 2:00 pm, where we all were accommodated. After we reached there the preparation for lunch underwent by the cooks. Group wise it was assigned that every day one group would serve food to all and also assists the cooking staff's. So, in the first day Group A served the food and ensured that hygiene to be maintained and all would get the food.

Between 9.30 AM to 10.30 AM-We settled with the available accommodation and assembled so that we could interact with the CRCC (Cluster Resource Community Coordinator) and villages could be allotted to each group. We went to the allotted village that is Ushpadar so that we can build the rapport with the village people to conduct the further activities.

After coming back from the Village, we had lunch, took some rest and then we were assembled at the evening at 4 PM so that we can visit Aurobindo school.

4.30 PM- We visited the Shri Aurobindo Purnanga Sikhya Kendra. We all went in a queue to the school. There we witnessed the integral education in true sense. At first we were assigned a teacher who could explain all the functionalities of the school. Teacher interacted with us and showed us how they cultivate organic vegetables and flowers. There were different varieties of flowers which were maintained by the locals as well as the students. We gave our homage to Shri Aurobindo Samadhi which was so peaceful from inside and gave a touchwood to all of us to commence the journey of Community work in the coming days. The students of the school were very actively involved in different activities like watering the plants, feeding the cows and many more. The most unique thing we noticed is whatever is grown in the campus is used up by the students for their growth and development. The whole campus around 15 acres was well used. Produced milk is also given to the students. The hostels are also well equipped with basic availabilities so that students can live and read properly. We participated in the meditation activity, been a part of evening assembly which was so soothing. We gave our homage to Shri ma also.

9.30 PM-After having our dinner, we gave our reflection at the end of the day. The first day reflection was all about the journey and the visit to the village and ashram in the evening and also the process of adapting which has just begun.

DAY 2- 6TH MARCH 2022

6:30 AM-Our day started with the advent of sunrise started with exercises to keep our health in fine tune. We all assembled at the nearby school ground where we were staying. The school was DasarathiSarkariUcha Vidyalaya. Our coordinator madam, Dr. Rashmi Rekha Sethy was the instructor of the physical activities. We first started with toe exerciseand went on till head exercise. Mam demonstrated the exercises and we then followed her. This was very refreshing and prepared us for the day. 8:00 AM –Next we all went for our next activity in community work “shram dan” where we all had to clean the school ground of Dasarathi Sarkari Ucha Vidyalaya. We as a whole group performed the activity with full energy went on with work to clean our school. We were given different tools which helped us in cleaning process. All my group members actively participated in this and cleaned the area allotted to us. This work was done for 1 hour and then we all went to freshen up for the day and get ready for our next community work. Then we served breakfast to the whole groups and had our breakfast.

10:30 AM–Our Group was assigned Ushpadar village which was around 2 km away from where we were staying. We were fortunate enough to have a local teacher(Mr. Bula Sahu) with us who helped us conducting all the activities in the village. After we reached the village we divided our groups into different groups consisting of 3 people, with at least one oriya speaking people, so that we have no communication problem in dealing with the local people. After the report collection was done we all then assembled at a common place and discussed our survey data work. We all returned to our school by 1.30 pm. Then we served lunch to our whole group. It was all together a new experience for us to serve the food. Then we at last had our lunch.

5:00 PM- We all, again assembled in the school ground for the preparation of our nukkad natak as in pre-conference we were told to do nukkad natak on some recent social issues, so in our group we had a small discussion and we decided the topic for our nukkad natak will be based on child labour. 9:30 PM-We all group members assembled for the preparation of group reflection and the day reflection report was sent to mam.

10:30 PM- All the group individually presented their day's reflection and we were given next day schedule.

DAY 3- 7TH MARCH 2022

The same schedule being followed, starting with Physical activity, Shrama Dana and then we went for the rally. Irrespective of the scorching heat of the sun, getting drained with no water after the rally we entered into the school. The new activity what we did was rally. Every group was in a queue one after the other. All groups were having their own slogans on different issues. We went around the village chanting our slogans. Our group was allotted the topic of “environment and girl child”. Our slogans were “Dharti maa ki yahihai pukar,harabhara ho ye sansaar” and other one was “betikoadhikardoh, bete jaise pyar doh”. It was a very nice experience doing something for the community. The response from the people was also very astonishing.

Then after rally we had our breakfast. After breakfast we left for a new village called Tarimi which was near about 4 kms away from where we stayed. After reaching there we again divide our whole group into small small groups with oriya speaking person in each group. Different groups went to different houses collected different types of reports. Some of us also had a detailed discussion with the villagers and there was a healthy discussion among them. Some of us also discussed about the problems they were facing in the villages.

After sometime we then assembled in a common place, discussed about our reports and left for our school around 1:00 pm. We reached school around 1:30 pm and had our lunch which was served by group C. After taking rest for a while, we practiced our nukkadnatak for 2 hrs in group. All the members of the group were really cooperating, hard working, creative and were trying their best to perform well. Then we had tea and biscuits around 7 pm. Then we had a rehearsal of our nukkadnatak in front of our coordinator mam. All the groups performed their part and we received feedbacks from teachers what we should improve on. After that we had our dinner around 10 pm. Then we all groups gave our reflections for the entire day.

DAY 4 - 8TH MARCH 2022

The morning started with exercise in the first sunshine. The enthusiasm can be seen among the teachers and students. Various workouts involving the psychomotor and cognitive amalgamation made us alert from inside. A clean environment sets the mood for the day. The voyage of cleanliness starts from own house. We cleaned the surroundings and made it free from plastic, weeds and thorny bushes. During cleaning we separated the biodegradable and non biodegradable wastes. We built a mindset that clean environment inculcates a clean mind. Something unique which happened was few local people came and appreciated for the work we were doing. This gave us some extra motivation to do the work.

After the shram dan activity we went to tarimi village for the village and school survey. Irrespective of the tiring schedule we managed to interact with community around us in the most effective manner. Today also we surveyed few houses in tarimi village and accordingly collected few data from the houses. Today few of our group members invited them to their houses. This shows the love and affection a community has for us. The details we got about hygiene, Education, Population, Profession enthralled us with diversity that we can find even within a small village.

Then in the evening we went to jagannathpur village where groups A, C & F performed their nukkadnatak. All the groups performed their nukkadnatak beautifully. The natak was well appreciated by the locals.

After coming from jagannathpur we had evening snacks. Then after taking rest for a while, we came for our nukkad natak practice as we have to perform it on the next day. Then we had our dinner and gave our respective reflections for the entire day.

After this activity we had breakfast and few members of our group went to Tarimi village and a few of them went to Dasarathi Sarkari Ucha Vidyalaya for completing two activities which was focus group discussion and classroom observation.

A school where the walls communicate with the quotes and messages that's what a classroom is. The moment a teacher and student differentiate between any random room and the classroom thereby the journey of teaching learning process begins in true sense. The classroom walls were with various quotes and information which were adding to the learners' knowledge. The teachers had a good rapport with the students; immaterial was the method or strategy at that point because their ultimate way of gaining knowledge is by the teacher only. The school was certainly lacking in resources, infrastructure and teachers but the teachers were trying to make it best for the learners. The activities we did were Classroom observation of Social Science, Focus Group Discussion and Survey of Secondary School. We found that the school is producing around 100 % result for class 10th in the last few academic sessions.

After completing the following activities, we all assembled during lunch and had short discussion on our reports and had our lunch. After taking rest for a while we went for performing our nukkad natak to Panidwar village. We performed our nukkad which was based on child labour. The theme of child labour had to be put in front of the local natives of Panidwar in a form of entertainment so that they find the ease in accepting the change. The venture of Nukkad started with scripting, casting followed by brainstorming to put the message in the most acceptable form. The stage ignited the spark of performing arts in all of us. The natural sentiments were also included by each and every member. The hard work was appreciated by the people who made us realize our role to serve the community. The message was vibrant to create the change among them. In true meaning we realized that a teacher is an all-rounder.

In the evening the visit of the principal as the head of the family filled us with energy as when some own person comes and reviews things and compliments it, it really is a matter of touchwood.

DAY-3

First of All We want to highlight here is that the motive behind this programme. It is about being the people. The Right, and what is Drugs, addiction for them. The awareness people already know , but What is We have to just make them aware.

This was not a short term process, It was along term process, What we can do Now is that, the expression of the people. The only -thing One observed I noticed was, that the people were aware about the odia slogan but they did Not understand about the slogan in Hindi i.e, Hindu, Muslim, Sikh, Isai Choteparibar me Sabki bhalai -They was confused what we were saying. This show that they were also excited / eager to know about what was there in the slogan. The people understood clearly And at instant they said yes it is correct. This statement conclude that the people also thinking the Same, what we are saying.

When we start our survey, we went to a family. They treated us with love and affection. The best thing We Love their that after surveying them for half an hour, they behave us as family member. They offer food to us.

About Community work→

We have got some experience. We can say that we were joyful at the same time sad too. I came into contact withan woman, who did not join the police at 23 by provoking of her family. She Always regret her life.

After marriage also, her husband didn't allow her for job but after so much of hard work and fight , she got teaching .Self Satisfaction is important. In Rally, we aware the village people for drug addiction, road safety, tree plantation and many more. And we are proud for this work we have done.

DAY-4

Quality of the morning starts with an energetic exercise. We did exercise of full body by observing the sun. We meditate to keep our brain cool & calm. Everyday we must respect women but today is the day to celebrate Women's Day. Today after morning PT, every one wishes women's day.

Then we went for shramdan, there local people were telling their children to learn from society clean. Some locals were well were cleaning donot clean. We the place, in said this is our mother earth, she is goddess and this environment is a temple, whether we keep our temple dirty. They said "No". Then we said, to think environment as temple & to give Love and affection. After that ,they appreciate us and said, you all are younger than us by age but nature by brain.

In evening, we went for Nukkad Natak groups for the celebration of women's day aware them for child marriage and of two & to empowerment. There a group performed a scene of women harassment. Some people standing there, were telling, what is happening good, why women should be independent. She should be devoted for household work only. Then some 80. our batch mate said them, why they said They from to it is think years , happening so why should women then we have to go outside. explain, to manage a home, a man & a woman is equally responsible. So, each other must help each other. And we can see these days that women are performing many hard to hard work and they independent are country now. Many women in our is making us proud for their work, so why not us. After that, they said we will try to change our thinking and will share this to the localities. Today, we were feeling happy that, we could change a person's thinking We know we cannot change the thinking of whole area. But we were feeling proud that we tried to share the awareness. among people.

Teacher is a multitasking. Teacher is the main element of the society who can play an important role for the change of the locality. Here, in this community work, we are doing survey every day according, the teals developed by our institution. when we were doing survey on the rural primary school there was a paint on the Shifting of the students from govt. school to privateschool. There was conferred different issues, some parents saying were that private school providing scope to Students when often is parents were reacting their issues like Government School is sacking in quality education.

So, according to the issues our that the teachers discussed open .The Solution that if the teachers of government School can build Practical relationship with the community membercame to controlled entertainment programme, where they can give assurance to the parents that they can get quality education in the government school. Thereafter are reflection is going forward with the gender equality Survey, where we found really day by day people. changing their mentality towards the discrimination and talking step towards making of female member independent. Here we also notified the dignity of labour which we can implement in our life this is all the works are equal. And told us that they are fully dependent on Alcohol as they work more than their body support. Ascending to them, Alcohol helps them to remove their body pain.

After the survey, we are resting at a place, there a person came & asking us "Who are we" "from where we came, then we told that, we are students from an educational institution in Bhubaneswar doing B.Ed. Then he said "You All are who were doing Rally that day. we

DAY : 03DATE : 07/03/2022*VILLAGE : MATIAPADA

The day started with rally to aware the community member of the village on various topics like drug abuse, Save girl child, child marriage, water conservation, sanitation etc. Each group was very enthusiastic, energetic & participatory. Today we learnt about that how to express our thoughts and views collaboratively. After that our group were enroute to participate in village survey. Four of our members went to primary school (Sarkaari Prathmik Vidyalaya, Matiapada) for collecting the information about the school to fill our format which is provided by organization committee. Rest of the member went to same village for the collecting various information (i.e. survey) as in group of three members. At the evening as usual we went for our Nukkad Natak practice. After that we performed our Nukkad Natak in front our respective members. The best part of this activities is we shared our views and opinions in front of our members and we learnt that how to express those views within ourselves. Not only we express those views in ourselves we were enjoyed & liked that moment.

Day : 04

DATE : 08/03/2022

VILLAGE : MATIAPADA

The day started with some physical exercise and it gave so much of warmth and freshness to the body as well as mind. Then we headed for our field work, some of our members collected garbage's and differentiated into plastic garbage's and decomposable. We did the work with full of energy & interest. Madam also gave us more energy to do it better.

Then our group divided into two parts, one group went for community work i.e. to the village Matiapada and other one went for Secondary school visit. First group Completed the survey part on interacting with the village people & their responses motivated a lot.

Next the school visit part was very unique and different. Class observation schedule went well. The main learning point was the focus group discussion. We didn't expected that we will get that type of answers from the pupils. They elaborated about Indian culture, tradition which made the class more interesting. We discussed some question and students engaged in the process with curiosity.

After returning from the survey at afternoon we went to see the Nukkad Natak of the three groups i.e. of group A,C and F. Village people were gather to see the Nukkad Natak. The best thing was that the women from the family were going on terrace to see the Nukkad Natak.

At evening we practice our Nukkad Natak for performing on the next day in front of the villagers.

DAY : 05

DATE : 09/03/2022

VILLAGE : MATIAPADA

We started our day with physical exercises like yoga, stretching etc. No doubt it is the best way to begin a day. We then headed for our survey work and this was the same village that we had been surveying from the last four days. The villagers of Matiapada started recognizing us and this identity gave us much pleasure to interact with them. They even requested us to visit their village tomorrow also.

The main part of this day was the Nukkad Natak which held in the evening. Four group have performed their Nukkad Natak. Our group was also one of them. Child marriage was the theme of our Nukkad Natak. One of the family from that village even arranged the props required during the Natak.

Villagers were very happy with our performance and the best part was that the villagers were relating their ongoing situation from that Natak. We got to know about it when the women came to us to put their problems before us. Not only from the villagers of the village at which we performed Nukkad was present but also people from nearby villages visited to watch our Natak. Our group consists of both odia and non-odia members but still the skit was conducted so smoothly as each and every member were cooperative.

At the evening we had meeting which was attended by our honorable Principal Prof. P C Aggarwal and Dean of research prof. B N Panda. They gave us motivation and blessings for the rest of the community work and life. At last students from their respective groups have given their reflection and that way the day passed well.

DAY : 06

VILLAGE : PANCHUPATIA

This day we got another village named Panchupatia we went to the village and divided our self and done our Survey, activities we were given. The villagers were very cooperative and we interacted with them about their way of Living . They took us as the guest which gave a us A complete family feeling . The village we were assigned before i.e. MATIAPADA where Women's are not that much Interactive and Cooperative we our self went to them they felt hesitation while interacting talk and share their experience but this time the Scenario is different here the Women's Inviting us to their homes and treated us with much of familiarity. The one thing that attracted us that they are talking to us without any hesitation. This village was quite developed the Women's are self independent and working for themselves as well as for their families.

At evening Dr. Ramakant mohalik one of our faculty member had visited to encourage us and we have our reflection of that day.

It was a complete nostalgic feeling as it was our last day and little bit hectic for us cause we have been assigned serving duty of that day. we went for the rally in the morning and with much of enthusiasm and energy we spread awareness to the other village. We have been divider our serving duty with morning tea breakfast and lunch . As a group we all have done our respective duties very nicely . Then we went back to our college.
