Sexual harassment is one specific prohibited type of harassment. Unwelcome or unwanted sexual advances, requests for sexual favours, and other physical, verbal, or visual conduct constitute sexual harassment.

It is harassment when:

- (1) Submission to the conduct is an explicit or implicit term or condition of employment.
- (2) Submission to or rejection of the conduct is used as the basis for an employment decision, or
- (3) The conduct had the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work performance or creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working environment.

Sexual harassment may include sexual propositions, sexual innuendoes, suggestive comments, excessive flattery, questioning of a personal nature, repeated requests for dates, sexually oriented "kidding," "teasing," or "practical jokes," jokes about gender specific traits, offensive or obscene language or gestures, leering or staring, whistling or hooting, offensive or obscene printed materials, pictures, posters, cartoons, graffiti, calendars, or e-mail, sms messages and inappropriate physical contact or touching of a sexual nature (e.g., brushing, patting, hugging, pinching, or shoulder rubs).

All employees are responsible for helping to assure a workplace free of harassment. The Management forbids retaliation against anyone who has reported harassment or participated in an investigation.

All of us must recognize that such behaviour not only violates the rules of common courtesy and is a violation of the Organization's policy, but also is illegal under labour laws. It is the Organization's policy to investigate all reports or complaints of harassment thoroughly and promptly. If an investigation confirms that harassment has occurred, the Management will take appropriate corrective action, up to and including termination.
